- Allianz Emerging Europe Equity¹⁾ - Because of the current and ever-evolving circumstances associated with the Ukraine / Russia situation, the current political situation and liquidity constraints caused by the ongoing closure of the Moscow stock exchange for international investors and various sanctions imposed on the financial markets, it is since suspension of NAV calculation on 1 March 2022 not possible to perform a proper valuation of the assets of the Fund. Thus, the suspension of NAV calculation remained suspended on 31 March 2022.
- The uncertainty for a valuation of assets is currently related to the Russian equities held by the fund. In order to calculate the All-in-Fee payable to the management company, the Russian equities has been valued with zero albeit such valuation does not represent a fair valuation of the Russian equities. All other assets are valued according to the standard valuation principles. The last redemption and subscription prices has been calculated at 28.02.2022.

A separate pool of assets and separate accounting records are maintained for each Subfund.

The figures presented in this report relate to the period from 1 October 2021 to 31 March 2022. They should not necessarily be taken as an indication of the future development of the Subfunds.

Subscriptions are only valid if made on the basis of the current Prospectus, the Articles of Incorporation, the Key Investor Information Document supplemented by the latest available audited Annual Report. If the latest Annual Report was published more than eight months ago, then the most recent Semi-Annual Report must also be made available.

The Prospectus, the Articles of Incorporation, the Key Investor Information Document as well as the respective Annual and Semi-Annual Reports can be obtained at the registered office of the Company or from the Management Company, the Custodian and each Paying and Information Agent without charge.

Some transactions conducted in the reporting period do no longer appear in the Investment Portfolio. The Statement of Changes in the composition of the securities portfolio during the reference period is available free of charge on request at the registered office of the Company and at the representatives where the Subfunds are distributed.

Important notice to our Shareholders

The Russian invasion of Ukraine caused considerable volatility and uncertainty on the international capital markets in 2022. As a result of this situation, it is only possible to make extremely limited general forecasts about capital market trends and future effects. At the current time, as the annual report is being prepared, it is therefore not possible to definitively assess the direct impact of the Russian invasion on the Fund.

AllianzGI has policies, procedures and systems in place to screen new and existing investors against applicable sanctions lists. In relation to Article 5f of Regulation (EU) No 833/2014 and Article 1y of Regulation (EC) No 765/2006, AllianzGI has decided to stop selling any fund units / shares or securities to Russian and Belarussian nationals after 12th April 2022. In this regard, AllianzGI has instructed its distribution partners, fund platforms and service providers such as transfer agents to stop distributing fund units / shares to Russian and Belarussian nationals. Where Russian or Belarussian nationals hold units / shares in funds before 12th April 2022, AllianzGI has instructed their service providers to block the investor's account for subscriptions and other transactions which would constitute a sale of fund units / shares.

The calculation is based on the net asset value per share (excluding sales charge), assuming distributions, if any, were reinvested. The performance is calculated according to the method recommended by the German BVI (Bundesverband Investment und Asset Management e.V.).

Past performance is not an indication of current or future performance.

The performance data do not take account of the commissions and costs incurred on the issue and redemption of shares.

Economic situation and capital market in the reporting period/outlook

War in Ukraine and economic sanctions are slowing the recovery

As at the end of March 2022, the half-year under review saw the initial continuation of the recovery of the global economy, with the economy-dampening effects of COVID-19 measures, which had come to an end in many areas, receding into the background. However, the significantly accelerated inflation experienced, particularly in developed countries, caused increasing risks on the demand side.

The Russian invasion of Ukraine at the end of February and the resulting economic sanctions of the West ultimately raised concerns that European economies in particular could fall back into recession. Economic concerns reflected Europe's high reliance on Russian energy sources such as gas, oil and coal, as well as other important commodities such as fertilisers, wheat and industrial metals.

The outlook in the United States was significantly brighter due to a high level of self-sufficiency and greater diversification of the commodity sources and energy mix. Nevertheless, concerns in the US have increased regarding both inflation momentum and the economic effects of interest rate hikes that have been made to curb inflation expectations.

The Asia-Pacific region and emerging markets in general experienced uneven development. Countries exporting commodities tended to benefit from sharply rising prices for energy sources and raw materials critical to industry. In contrast, uncertainty concerning the robustness of the Chinese economy was felt more strongly in countries that are more reliant on demand from China. At the same time, regulatory easing in certain market segments was counteracted by the strict "zero-Covid" policy enforced by Beijing leadership.

Equity markets: Noticeably declining prices in some areas

On the international equity markets, the increased uncertainty and hike in commodity prices had divergent effects on prices. The upward trend in the US equity market was only slightly dampened, with the reporting period closing with a significant increase overall. Calculated in EUR, the result was even better than in USD, as the US currency benefited from reallocations by international investors and appreciated noticeably.

In Europe, the downward trends have prevailed recently, although the overall market remained more or less stable on balance. This overall performance masked discrepancies between the results of individual countries. Particularly significant price losses were seen in Germany. This reflected the markedly high reliance of the German economy on Russian energy and commodity imports as well as the strain on export opportunities as a result of extensive sanctions against Russia. The gloomy trading outlook also impeded the Japanese equity market.

In emerging markets, declining equity prices prevailed despite varying levels of interdependence with the Russian economy. This was partly the result of the general reallocation of investors in favour of the US equity market, which is considered particularly liquid and more stable in times of crisis. The market in China was particularly subject to selling pressure. In addition, a markedly slower growth in domestic demand had a negative impact in the country.

Volatility – i.e. the fluctuation range of price movements on the equity market – initially declined. Shortly after the start of the new year, heightened concerns about increased inflation and rising interest led to a bounce-back. Price fluctuations continued to intensify upon the onset of the invasion of Ukraine, but then proceeded to decrease somewhat in intensity.

Bond markets: Rising interest, falling prices

In terms of trends, the picture for the global bond markets was fairly uniform. The majority of regions and security classes saw a marked increase in market interest rates, resulting in an inversely reflected decrease in bond prices. This was mainly attributed to increased inflationary pressure and the expectation of a tighter monetary policy for central banks.

The trend towards higher yields was also observed in the money market and for short-term securities – albeit a weakened trend. The rise in interest was significantly more noticeable in traditional government and corporate bonds, especially those with long maturities. High-yield bond prices also faced downward pressure as investors became generally more cautious regarding issuers' reduced credit rating in the face of the uncertain economic outlook and more difficult financing conditions.

Emerging-market interest-bearing securities were by far the most affected by increasing risk aversion in the bond markets. That said, the fundamental situation of most emerging markets did not significantly deteriorate as a result of the war in Ukraine or the sanctions imposed on Russia. However, against the backdrop of generally increased uncertainty, there were large-scale reallocations on the part of international investors in favour of stable, longer-established market segments.

Outlook

Equities

The pre-existing signs of more wide-spread and enduring inflation are likely to be reinforced by sharply rising prices, especially for energy and food. Sanctions against Russia could also create new strains on supply chains and transport routes. The economic outlook has clouded as a result. Higher prices are putting a squeeze on disposable household income for consumption; companies are less confident about future plans and may opt to put investment decisions on hold. On a more positive front, many countries are set to see robust demand developing for leisure and travel services, despite the lingering uncertainties about how to manage the pandemic. In addition, savings from the recent pandemic years are expected to cushion at least part of the strain of higher prices. In summary, the next few months are likely to see a global growth slowdown. Despite this challenging environment, equities in tangible assets should remain attractive in the medium term. Real interest rates, i.e. interest less the current high inflation rates, will remain negative in the longer term. Nevertheless, fundamentals of the individual companies should continue to be of great importance. We believe that this speaks well for a continued active approach to stock selection.

Bonds

Higher inflation and increased downside risks for the economy are putting central banks in a difficult position. Both the European Central Bank (ECB) and the US Federal Reserve (Fed) have, at least verbally, positioned themselves as wanting to fight against inflation in recent weeks. Until recently, however, both central banks were pursuing a very expansionary monetary policy, which is why they now need to make swift and robust countermovements. Money market investors in the US are currently expecting seven or even more

Fed interest rate hikes and a reduction in the Fed's bond holdings. The ECB cannot rule out upwards movement in the deposit rate this year either. Top-rated government bonds from EU core countries are likely to be sought as "safe havens" in the face of the uncertain geopolitical situation. The expected phasing out of ECB bond purchases later in the year, plus structural fiscal risks (high deficits/debt) could exert upwards pressure on the yield spreads of peripheral government bonds against German Bunds.
