1. Issue

Without prejudice to the provisions of Article 9.4 below, shares in each sub-fund or share class may be subscribed to at least twice a month at the institutions designated by the Board of Directors of the Company. The Board of Directors may decide to change these days and may decide to change the number of days on which these orders are received. The approval of the General Meeting is required in order to reduce the number of days on which subscription orders can be received.

The subscription price for shares in each sub-fund and each share class equals their net asset value determined in accordance with Article 9 below, plus the fees, commissions and charges determined by the Board of Directors in accordance with the conditions of the market on which they are offered, and pursuant to the applicable legislation. These fees, commissions and charges are specified in the prospectus.

Duties, taxes and any stamp duty are added to this price in accordance with the applicable legislation.

The Board of Directors may change the rate of the fees, commissions and charges at any time, provided it observes the relevant legal provisions.

The powers of the Board of Directors regarding the following fees are limited to the maximum percentages stated below:

- the amount to be paid to the collective investment undertaking, to cover the costs of acquiring the assets: maximum three per cent (3%) This maximum percentage also includes the anti-dilution levy referred to in Article 117, §4 of the Royal Decree;
- the trading commission for the companies responsible for trading the units: maximum five per cent (5%);
- the amount to cover the administrative costs for the companies responsible for trading the units: maximum two per cent (2%).

The method of calculating these fees, commissions and charges is specified in the prospectus.

The subscription price must be paid no later than ten banking days following subscription. The actual period applying to the various sub-funds and share classes is stated in the prospectus.

2. Redemption

Without prejudice to the provisions of Article 9.4 below, the shareholders of each sub-fund and each share class may, at least twice a month, request redemption of their shares at the institutions designated by the Board of Directors of the Company. For each sub-fund and each share class, redemption orders will be received on the days specified by the Board of Directors and stated in the prospectus. The Board of Directors may decide to change these days and may decide to change the number of days on which these orders are received. The approval of the General Meeting is required in order to reduce the number of days on which redemption orders can be received.

The redemption price for shares in each sub-fund and each share class equals their net asset value, determined in accordance with Article 9 below, less the fees, commissions and charges determined in accordance with the conditions of the market on which they are offered, and pursuant to the applicable legislation. These fees, commissions and charges are specified in the prospectus.

Duties, taxes and any stamp duty will be deducted from this price in accordance with the applicable legislation.

The Board of Directors may change the rate of the fees, commissions and charges at any time, provided it observes the relevant legal provisions.

The powers of the Board of Directors regarding the following fees are limited to the maximum percentages stated below:

- the amount to be paid to the collective investment undertaking, to cover the cost of selling the assets: maximum three per cent (3%) This maximum percentage also includes the anti-dilution levy referred to in Article 117, §4 of the Royal Decree;
- the amount to cover the administrative costs for the companies responsible for trading the units: maximum two per cent (2%);
- the amount to be paid to the collective investment undertaking to discourage redemption within one month of subscription: maximum five per cent (5%).

The method of calculating these fees, commissions and charges is specified in the prospectus.

This price must be paid no later than ten banking days following the redemption order and provided the shares have also been received. The actual period applying to the various sub-funds and share classes is stated in the prospectus.

3. Exchange

The method of calculating these fees, commissions and charges is specified in the prospectus.

The Board of Directors may decide that the Company will redeem the share fraction remaining after the exchange.

Article 9. Net asset value

For each sub-fund, each share class and each type of shares, the net asset value used to calculate the subscription, redemption and exchange prices is determined every day that subscription, redemption or exchange orders are received.

The reference currency for each sub-fund and the currency in which each share class is denominated is determined by the Board of Directors and stated in the prospectus.

1. Assets

Save as otherwise stipulated by law, the assets of the Company, divided up per sub-fund and, where applicable, per share class and/or per type of shares, are valued as follows:

When purchased or sold, securities, money market instruments, units in undertakings for collective investment and financial derivatives are recorded in the accounts at their acquisition price or sale price, respectively. Any additional expenses, such as trading and delivery costs, are charged directly to the income statement. After initial recognition, securities, money market instruments and financial derivatives are measured at fair value on the basis of the following rules:

- a) Securities that are traded on an active market without the involvement of third-party financial institutions are measured at fair value using the closing price.
- b) For assets that have an active market which functions through third-party financial institutions guaranteeing continuous bid and ask prices, the current bid price set on that market is used for measuring the assets. However, since most international benchmarks use mid-prices, and the data providers (e.g., JP Morgan, iBoxx, MSCI, etc.) cannot supply bid prices, the mid-prices are used to measure debt instruments at fair value, in accordance with the statutory provisions. The method to correct these mid-prices and generate the bid price is not used, as it is not reliable enough and could result in major fluctuations.
- c) Securities whose last known price is not representative and securities that are not admitted to official listing or admitted to another organised market are valued as follows:
 - a. When measuring these securities at fair value, use is made of the current fair value of similar assets for which there is an active market, provided this fair value is adjusted to take account of the differences between the assets concerned.
 - b. If no fair value for similar assets exists, the fair value is calculated on the basis of other valuation techniques which make maximum use of market data, which are consistent with generally accepted economic methods and which are verified and tested on a regular basis.
 - c. If no organised or unofficial market exists for the assets being valued, account is also taken of the uncertain character of these assets, based on the risk that the counterparties involved might not meet their obligations.
- d) Shares for which there is no organised or unofficial market, and whose fair value cannot be calculated reliably as set out above, are measured at cost. Impairment is applied to these shares if there are objective instructions to this end.
- e) Units in undertakings for collective investment (for which there is no organised market) are measured at fair value using their most recent net asset value.
- f) Cash balances, including demand balances held with credit institutions, current-account obligations towards credit institutions, amounts payable and receivable in the short-term that are not embodied in negotiable securities or money market instruments (other than with respect to credit institutions), tax credits and tax liabilities are valued at nominal value.
- g) Other long-term receivables that are not embodied in negotiable securities or money market instruments are valued at fair value.
- h) Impairment is recorded on the assets, amounts to be received and receivables where there is uncertainty concerning their payment in full or in part on the maturity date or if the going concern value of those assets is lower than the acquisition value. Additional impairment is recorded on the assets, amounts to be received and receivables referred to in the previous paragraph to ensure that any change in their value, or risks inherent in the asset in question, are taken into account.
- i) The income arising from securities lending is recognised as the lending rate and is included on an accruals basis in the profit and loss account over the term of the transaction.
- j) Securities denominated in a currency other than that of the relevant sub-fund are converted into the currency of the sub-fund at the last known mid-market exchange rate.

2. Liabilities

To calculate the netassets of the various sub-funds and, where applicable, the share classes and/or types of shares, the value of the liabilities of the relevant sub-fund, share class and/or type of shares is subtracted from the value of that sub-fund, share class and/or type of shares calculated as specified in article 9.1.

The liabilities of the Company, divided up per sub-fund and, where applicable, per share class and/or type of shares, consist of loans, if any, and debts, whereby debts not yet due are calculated pro rata temporis according to their exact value, if known, or, if not known, according to their estimated value. Brokerage and any other costs relating to the purchase of securities are added to the purchase price. Brokerage and any other costs relating to the sale of securities are deducted from the redemption price.

3. Net asset value

Each Company share for which redemption has been requested is deemed to be an issued and existing share until the period for receiving orders closes, and is thereafter deemed a liability for the relevant sub-fund, the relevant share class and/or the relevant type of shares of the Company until the redemption price has been paid.

Shares to be issued by the Company in accordance with subscription orders received are deemed to have been issued with effect from the time the period for receiving orders closes, and the subscription price is deemed to be an amount receivable by the relevant sub-fund, the relevant share class and/or the relevant type of shares of the Company until payment thereof is received.

The net asset value of the shares of a sub-fund, share class or type of shares is determined by dividing the net assets (assets less liabilities) of that sub-fund, that share class or that type of shares by the number of shares in circulation of the sub-fund, share class or type of shares.

To calculate the net asset value of units relating to orders to issue or redeem units or switch between sub-funds on day D, the fair values for day D are used if a maximum of 20% of the fair values is known at the time the period for receiving orders was closed.

To calculate the net asset value of units relating to orders to issue or redeem units or switch between sub-funds on day D, the fair values for day D + 1 are used if more than 20% of the fair values are already known at the time the period for receiving orders was closed.

Within the limits of the Act and the rules adopted in implementation thereof, the provisions in the prospectus may differ from those set out in the two previous paragraphs for one or more sub-funds or one or more share classes.

The net assets of the Company are equal to the sum of the net assets of all the sub-funds, converted into the reference currency of the Company based on the last known exchange rates. To the extent permitted by law, the Board of Directors may decide to change the reference currency of the Company or of a sub-fund or to change the currency in which a share class is denominated, or to use multiple reference currencies or currencies in which share classes are denominated.

4. Suspension of the calculation of the net asset value

By decision of the Board of Directors, the Company will suspend calculation of the net asset value of the shares, and will suspend their issue, redemption and exchange in the circumstances listed in the Royal Decree.

Furthermore, by decision taken by the Board of Directors, the Company may, under certain special circumstances in which it appears necessary, at any time suspend the issue of shares if such a measure is required to protect the interests of the shareholders of the Company.

The Company may, by decision taken by the Board of Directors, refuse or spread over time one or more subscriptions that could upset its equilibrium.

The measures described in the present article may be limited to one or several share classes.

Article 10. Board of Directors

1. General

The Company will be managed by a Board of Directors consisting of at least three members, who may or may not be shareholders. The members of the board of directors shall form a college.

They will be elected or re-elected by the General Meeting for a term not exceeding six years, but their mandate is renewable indefinitely. Each director may represent one or more directors, but no single director may represent all other directors. Decisions will be taken by simple majority vote.. Where the vote is tied, the person chairing the meeting will have the casting vote.

Directors who, in application of the law, are not entitled to take part in deliberations and voting are not taken into account for the purpose of determining this quorum.

Each member of the board of directors may, by any means of telecommunication or videography, take part in the deliberations of a board of directors and vote, in order to organise meetings between several participants who are geographically separated from one another, so as to enable them to communicate simultaneously

The decisions of the Board of Directors may also be taken decisions by written decision. Decisions taken in this way must be unanimous. The signatures of the directors will be appended to either a single document or to several copies of that document. Such decisions have the same validity and the same authority as if they had been taken during a Board meeting regularly convened and held on the date the last signature was appended by the directors to the document referred to above.

2. Companies providing the financial services

The companies providing the financial services will be appointed in an agreement with the Company, in which the companies' fees (if any) will also be specified.

The Company may remove a company from its duties subject to a notice in writing. A contract for providing financial services may only be terminated if at least one financial institution takes on the responsibility for and carries out the relevant financial services tasks.

Pending the appointment of another company, the remaining company will continue to carry out its obligations specified in the agreement with the Company.

Article 14. General meeting

1. Convening

The ordinary General Meeting will be held at eleven a.m. on the second-last banking day of November. If there is only one shareholder, he will sign the annual accounts for approval on this date.

The general meeting will be held at the office of the Company or at any other place in Belgium indicated in the convening notice.

The ordinary General Meeting may be held abroad, should the Board of Directors determine that exceptional circumstances so warrant.

General Meetings of Shareholders of a specific sub-fund may also be held.

An extraordinary or special meeting of the Company or of a sub-fund must be convened by the Board of Directors or, where appropriate, by the statutory auditor whenever the law or the interests of the Company or of the sub-fund so requires. It must be convened if so requested by shareholders who together represent one-tenth of the capital of the Company or of the relevant sub-fund.

The shareholders shall meet after being convened by the Board of Directors by means of a convening notice that sets out the agenda.

Holders of registered and book-entry shares will be convened in the manner prescribed by law.

In order to be admitted to the General Meeting, and unless otherwise determined by law, holders of registered and of book-entry shares are required to notify the Board of Directors in writing, at the latest on the sixth calendar day before the date scheduled for the meeting, of their intention to attend the General Meeting and of the number of shares they intend to use when participating in the voting and this in the manner stated in the convening notice.

Moreover, holders of book-entry shares will be admitted to the General Meeting only if they at the latest on the sixth calendar day before the determined date of the meeting, deposit a certificate issued by the recognized account holder or the settlement institution, which establishes the unavailability of the dematerialized shares until the date of the meeting, at the office of the Company or at one of the Company's financial services providers..

Any person can renounce the convocation and shall in any case be deemed to have been convened regularly if he is present or represented at the meeting

Each time all shareholders are present or represented and declare that they agree to the agenda submitted to them for deliberation, the General Meeting may be held without being convened in advance.

Once the convening notice has been published, shareholders may submit questions in writing which must be received by the company at least on the sixth calendar day before the date fixed for the meeting.

2. Attendance list

Before participating in the general meeting, the shareholders or their proxy holders are obliged to sign the attendance list, indicating the name, first name(s) and number of shares with which they are participating in the general meeting.

3. Decisions

The General Meeting shall deliberate on the agenda items and take decisions in accordance with the rules of the Code on companies and associations.

No meeting may deliberate on items that do not appear on the agenda, unless all shares are present or represented at the meeting and a unanimous resolution is passed to that effect.

Except in those cases determined by law, decisions will be taken by simple majority vote, irrespective of the number of shares represented at the meeting. An abstention is not taken into account when counting the votes.

Each shareholder may participate in the meeting by appointing, in writing, another person, who need not be a shareholder, as proxy.

The shareholders may, unanimously and in writing, take all decisions that fall within the competence of the general meeting, with the exception of those that must be drawn up in a deed. In this case, the formalities for convening the meeting do not have to be completed.

Co-owners, usufructuaries and bare owners, pledgees and pledgers, in short, all persons who, for one reason or another, are jointly entitled to one and the same share or fraction of a share, must respectively arrange to be represented by one and the same person.

Unless otherwise determined by law, if a General Meeting is organised at Company level, all decisions will be taken by simple majority vote of those shareholders of the Company who are present or represented.

Unless otherwise determined by law, if a General Meeting is organised at sub-fund level, all decisions will be taken by simple majority vote of those shareholders of the relevant sub-fund who are present or represented.

When the shares have the same value, each share grants entitlement to one vote. When they do not have the same value, each legally represents a number of votes proportional to the part of the capital they represent, whereby the share that represents the smallest part is counted as one vote.

If the Company has only one shareholder, it can only exercise the powers granted to the general meeting.

Article 15. Financial year

The financial year begins on the first of September and ends on the thirty-first of August of the following year.

Article 16. Reports

Prior to the ordinary General Meeting, shareholders may obtain the annual report from the office of the Company. All elements of the financial situation of the Company are audited by an accredited statutory auditor, who is appointed and replaced by the General Meeting.

The amount allocated will be divided among the directors in accordance with the regulations laid down by the Board of Directors. The General Meeting must be notified in the event that certain or all of the directors do not wish to receive a share of the profit.
