Legal notice

The software used performs calculations on the basis of more than the two decimal places displayed. Minor discrepancies cannot be ruled out due to further calculations using published results.

The value of a unit is calculated by dividing the entire value of the investment fund inclusive of its income by the number of units. The total value of the investment fund is calculated on the basis of the current market prices of the securities, money market instruments and subscription rights in the fund plus the value of the fund's financial investments, cash holdings, credit balances, receivables and other rights net of its payables. That value will be calculated by the custodian bank.

The net assets are calculated in accordance with the following principles:

- a) The value of assets quoted or traded on a stock exchange or other regulated market shall be determined, in principle, on the basis of the most recently available price.
- b) Where an asset is not quoted or traded on a stock market or another regulated market or where the price for an asset quoted or traded on a stock market or another regulated market does not appropriately reflect its actual market value, the prices provided by reliable data providers or, alternatively, market prices for equivalent securities or other recognized market valuation methods shall be used.

The performance is calculated by Raiffeisen KAG on the basis of published fund prices, using the method developed by OeKB (Österreichische Kontrollbank AG). Individual costs such as transaction fees, the subscription fee, the redemption fee, the custody charges of the investor and taxes are not included in the performance calculation. If included, these would lead to a lower performance. Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future performance. Markets could develop very differently in the future. Based on the illustration, you can assess how the fund was managed in the past.

Fund investment policy report

The period from June 1, 2023 to November 30, 2023 was marked by a considerable increase in gas prices (+60 % in Europe, +24 % in the USA) as well as by a relatively moderate increase in oil prices (+14 % in Europe, +12 % in the USA). The OPEC+ countries, especially Saudi Arabia and Russia, tried keeping the price of oil high by cutting their production. This strategy worked through late September 2023, with the price of a barrel of Brent nearly reaching the mark of USD 100. In the next two following months, however, fears grew of a weakening demand for oil, predominately due to the higher-for-longer trend on the interest rate markets. These growing concerns led to an oil price correction. The situation was similar on the gas markets, where prices dropped by roughly 20 % in November 2023 due to the storage facilities in Europe being almost full. The fund itself was able to gain a good 4 % in the reporting period. This positive price trend was driven largely by the major integrated oil and gas companies, including Galp and Equinor. But even oil service companies, such as Baker Hughes, paid a significant contribution as well. On the downside, the fund contains renewable energy stocks with a weighting of around 25 %, which made a negative contribution of around 4 %. Within the fund itself, Siemens Energy and Northland Power positions were purchased, and more OMV stocks were added. In exchange, positions in Eversource Energy and Technip Energies were sold off altogether. On the other hand, stocks of Equinor, Galp, Shell, Baker Hughes and Eni recorded gains.
