To the best of the knowledge and belief of the Directors (who have taken all reasonable care to ensure that such is the case), the information in the Prospectus and this Supplement accords with the facts and does not omit anything likely to affect the import of such information. The Directors accept responsibility accordingly.

VANGUARD ACTIVE USD HIGH YIELD CORPORATE BOND UCITS ETF

(a Fund of Vanguard Funds plc, an open-ended investment company with variable capital structured as an umbrella fund with segregated liability between Funds)

SUPPLEMENT DATED 29 JULY 2026

TO THE PROSPECTUS FOR VANGUARD FUNDS PLC DATED 29 JULY 2026

This Supplement forms part of, and should be read in the context of, and together with, the Company’s Prospectus dated 29 July 2026. Investors should also refer to the Company’s latest published annual reports and audited financial statements and, if published after such report, a copy of the latest semi-annual report and unaudited financial statements.

An investment in the Fund should be viewed as medium term.

Investors should note that the Fund invests in sub-investment grade bonds and, as such, involves a higher average degree of risk than other Funds. Accordingly, it is recommended that an investment in the Fund should not constitute a substantial proportion of an investment portfolio and may not be appropriate for all investors. For more information see below under Primary Risks.

If you are in any doubt about the action to be taken or the contents of this Supplement, please consult your stockbroker, bank manager, lawyer, accountant or other independent professional adviser.

Benchmark Index

Bloomberg US High Yield 2% Issuer Cap Index (the “Index”).

The Index provides a measure of the USD-denominated, high yield, fixed-rate corporate bond market. Securities are classified as high yield if the middle rating of Moody’s, Fitch and S&P is Ba1/BB+/BB+ or below. Bonds from emerging market issuers, as defined by the index provider, are excluded from the Index. The aggregate weight of all bonds from an issuer is capped at 2% of the weight of the Index.

Investment Objective

The Fund aims to provide a higher total return (capital growth plus income) than the Index after the fees and expenses of the Fund.

Primary Investment Strategies

The Fund employs an “active management” strategy and the Investment Manager will follow the distinct approaches set out below in managing the Fund’s assets. While the Fund may invest in components of the Index, it is not pursuing an indexing strategy designed to track the performance of the Index and the Fund may invest in securities that are not components of the Index. The Fund’s performance will be measured against that of the Index.

The Fund will invest in bonds, including fixed and floating rate issues. Under normal market conditions, the Fund will invest at least 80% of its assets in USD denominated, corporate bonds from issuers with a credit rating of the equivalent of Ba1 and below (“high yield” or “non-investment grade”) by Moody’s or another independent rating agency or which are determined to be of comparable quality by the Investment Manager. Issuers of these securities may be located in any country.

The Fund may invest in other securities including USD-denominated treasury and government-related issues, securitised issues (which may include both asset-backed and mortgage-backed securities), non-USD-denominated fixed income securities and investment grade bonds; and, as described below, syndicated loans, Rule 144A securities and Regulation S securities.

The Investment Manager implements a strategic and disciplined framework for analysing fixed income securities. Decisions on how to allocate the Fund’s assets are dependent on the Investment Manager’s outlook on such securities. The Investment Manager will select issuers based on its proprietary analysis; focusing on an outlook including factors such as the global market environment, relevant business and financial information, the attractiveness of the valuations available in the securities, with criteria which may include yield spread comparisons on a historical basis as well as a cross-sectional basis with comparable sectors.

The Investment Manager may, in its discretion, restrict the extent to which the Fund’s holdings deviate from the Index constituents on a security selection and fixed income sector basis. The Fund may take active fixed income sector views with the focus on bond specific selection. The extent to which the Fund can outperform the Index may be restricted by constraints applied by the Investment Manager which limit the potential volatility of the difference between the return of the Fund and the return of the Index. Such constraints may change or be removed from time to time at the Investment Manager’s discretion and depending on market environments.

The Fund’s duration is expected to be within +/-1.25 years of that of the Index. Duration is a measure of the price sensitivity of a fixed income security or a portfolio of fixed income securities to relative changes in interest rates. For instance, a duration of “four” means that a security’s or portfolio’s price would be expected to decrease by approximately 4% with a 1% increase in interest rates (assuming a parallel shift in yield curve).

The Fund may invest up to 10% of its net asset value in syndicated loans. Syndicated loans may be originated for a variety of reasons including but not limited to general corporate or operating purposes, to refinance an existing loan, as part of a company's recapitalisation or to finance a leveraged buy-out and involve credit and liquidity risk proportionate to the borrower's credit rating. Such loans shall satisfy the relevant money market instrument criteria outlined in the UCITS Regulations and may be acquired from banks, brokers, or other syndicated lenders. The Fund will not grant loans in accordance with the UCITS Regulations;

The Fund may invest in securities issued pursuant to Rule 144A ("Rule 144A Securities") of the 1933 Act where they are listed or traded on a Regulated Market (including where they are also offered outside the United States pursuant to Regulation S of the 1933 Act). Where Rule 144A Securities are not so listed or traded, they will be subject to the 10% limit referred to below, save where: (a) they were issued with an undertaking to register the relevant security with the SEC within one year of issue; and (b) can be realised by the Fund within seven (7) days at approximately the price at which it is valued by the Fund.

Exposure to Rule 144A Securities which do not meet the above criteria shall, together with exposure to syndicated loans, be subject to an aggregate limit of 10% of the Fund's net asset value in accordance with paragraph (ii)(a) of the section titled "Investment Restrictions" in Appendix 3 of the Prospectus.

The Fund may invest in securities which are denominated in currencies other than the Base Currency, including, but not limited to the Pound Sterling, Euro, Australian Dollar, and Swiss Franc. These investments are typically expected to be hedged to the Base Currency.

The Fund may invest in subordinate and callable bonds. A subordinate bond is a class of bond that ranks lower than other types of bond in terms of the priority accorded to their repayment where the issuer of the bond is liquidated. A callable bond is a bond that may be redeemed or 'called' by its issuer (i.e. by returning the principal to the investor and ceasing coupon payments) before it matures, usually subject to certain conditions or limits. Callable bonds are typically used as a hedge against interest rate risk since issuers can reduce their liabilities by paying off existing debt (i.e. by calling the bond) when interest rates fall and offering new bonds at lower interest rates.

As further detailed below, the Fund may invest in warrants or hold warrants where these are issued by reason of or in connection with transferable securities held in the Fund or otherwise hold warrants for efficient portfolio management purposes.

The securities in which the Fund will invest shall, to the extent required by the UCITS Regulations, be listed or traded on the Regulated Markets set out in Appendix 5 of the Prospectus.

Other Investment Strategies

In pursuing its Investment Objective, the Fund may also invest in exchange-traded and over-the counter ("OTC") financial derivative instruments ("FDI") for direct investment purposes, efficient portfolio management purposes, and / or hedging provided such investment is in accordance with Appendix 4 of the Prospectus and the requirements of the Central Bank. Investments in OTC FDI shall be with UCITS-eligible counterparties that have been selected taking into account considerations including best execution and the extent of any counterparty risk exposure applying to the Fund at the time of investment.

Specifically, the Fund may invest in the following FDI:

- Futures (including, but not limited to, currency futures, index futures, interest rate futures, credit futures and/or futures on bonds or bond indices) in order to hedge against risk exposures arising in the portfolio, to manage cash flows on a short term basis and/or to achieve cost efficiencies. Futures contracts are agreements to buy or sell a fixed amount of an index, equity, bond or currency at a fixed date in the future. Futures contracts are exchange-traded instruments and their dealing is subject to the rules of the exchanges on which they are dealt. An interest rate future is a futures contract with an interest bearing instrument as the underlying asset. A credit future typically references a credit index – for example, an index representing a basket of corporate bonds – and allows the purchaser to adjust its credit exposure without having to buy or sell the underlying asset directly.
- Forward Foreign Exchange Contracts, which are agreements between parties to exchange fixed amounts of different currencies at an agreed exchange rate at an agreed time in the future. Forward foreign exchange contracts are traded OTC and may be used to manage currency exposures. Non-deliverable forward foreign exchange contracts may be used for the same reasons. They differ from standard forward foreign exchange contracts in that at least one of the currencies in the transaction is not permitted to be delivered in settlement of any profit or loss resulting from the transaction. Typically, profit or loss in this case will be delivered in US Dollars or Euro.
- Options (including, but not limited to, currency options, stock options, options on indices, options on futures, options on bonds, swaptions and / or credit default swap options). Options are contracts in which the writer (seller) promises that the contract buyer has the right, but not the obligation, to buy or sell a certain index, equity, bond or currency at a certain price (the strike price) on or before a certain expiration date, or exercise date. An option giving the buyer the right to buy at a certain price is called a call, while one that gives him/her the right to sell is called a put. Call and put options may be purchased and written on securities, securities indices and currencies and options may be used on futures contracts and swap agreements and / or to hedge against changes in interest rates, currency exchange rates or securities prices. Swaptions and credit default swap options are types of option contracts which give the contract buyer the right, but not the obligation, to enter into a swap or credit default swap, respectively, in the future at a contractually specified date and price.
- Warrants, which are similar to options in that they give the holder the right but not the obligation to buy or sell stock at a set price in the future. A warrant guarantees the holder the right to buy (or sell) a specific number of shares at a specific price (the strike price) for a defined period of time. A Fund may invest in warrants or may acquire warrants passively as a result, for example, of corporate actions.
- Swaps (including, but not limited to, total return swaps, foreign exchange swaps, single name credit default swaps, credit-default swap indices, interest rate swaps, inflation swaps and / or cross-currency swaps). Generally, a swap is a contractual agreement between two counterparties in which the cash flows from two reference assets are exchanged as they are received for a predetermined time period.
 - A total return swap is an agreement between two parties whereby one party makes payments to the other based on an agreed rate, while the other party makes payments to the first party based on the return of an underlying asset or assets, such as one or more securities, a currency, an index or an interest rate. The reference assets underlying the total return swaps, if any, may be any security or basket of securities which are consistent with the investment policies of the Fund.

- Foreign exchange swaps may be used to manage exchange rate/currency risk arising in the portfolio, to benefit directly from changes in currency exchange rates or for any other commercial purpose disclosed in the relevant Fund's investment strategies.
- A credit default swap ("CDS") is a swap used to transfer the risk of default on an underlying fixed income security from the holder of the fixed income security to the seller of the swap. For example, if the Fund buys a CDS (which could be to take a short position in respect of the credit of the fixed income security's issuer or to hedge an investment in the relevant fixed income security), it will be entitled to receive the value of the fixed income security from the seller of the CDS, should the fixed income security's issuer default on its payment obligations under the fixed income security. Where the Fund sells a CDS (which is taking a long position in respect of the credit of the fixed income security's issuer) it will receive a fee from the purchaser and hope to profit from that fee in the event that the issuer of the relevant fixed income security does not default on its payment obligations.
- A credit default index swap is a standardised and highly liquid credit derivative used to hedge credit risk or to take a position on a basket of credit fixed income securities (a CDS index is a portfolio of actively traded liquid fixed income securities in a particular sector of the market).
- An interest rate swap is a contract used to offset risks posed to the value of the Fund's portfolio by volatility in interest rates or to speculate on changes to interest rates.
- An inflation swap is a contract used to transfer inflation risk from one party to another through an exchange of fixed cash flows. In an inflation swap, one party pays a fixed rate cash flow on a notional principal amount while the other party pays a floating rate linked to an inflation index, such as the Consumer Price Index (CPI). The party paying the floating rate pays the inflation-adjusted rate multiplied by the notional principal amount. Usually, the principal does not change hands. Each cash flow comprises one leg of the swap.
- A cross-currency swap is an OTC derivative in a form of an agreement between two parties to exchange interest payments and principal denominated in two different currencies. In a cross-currency swap, interest payments and principal in one currency are exchanged for principal and interest payments in a different currency. Interest payments are exchanged at fixed intervals during the life of the agreement. Cross-currency swaps can include variable, fixed interest rates, or both.

See Appendix 4 of the Prospectus for information on leverage and the calculation of global exposure.

The Fund may invest in foreign exchange spots. A foreign exchange spot trade involves the purchase or sale of a foreign currency and typically settles in the region of two business days after the trade date.

The Fund may, in accordance with the requirements of the Central Bank, invest up to 10% of its net assets in other Funds of the Company and other collective investment undertakings including exchange traded funds and undertakings linked by common management or control to each other or to the Company. See Appendix 3 of the Prospectus for information on investment in collective investment schemes, including other Funds of the Company.

In limited circumstances, such as in the event of a restructuring or a corporate action, the Fund may receive and hold equity and/or hybrid instruments in exchange for or related to fixed income securities held by the Fund. Such equity and hybrid instruments may include, but are not limited to: common equity; preferred equity; rights; depositary receipts; convertible bonds (which may embed derivative instruments but will not result in additional leverage being generated); and warrants. The ability to take delivery and hold equity and/or hybrid instruments is crucial for maximising value in distressed situations. Where such instruments do not form part of the Fund's primary investment strategy, the Investment Manager may continue to hold such instruments while it remains in the best interests of Shareholders.

The Fund may also enter into repurchase agreements, reverse repurchase agreements and security lending arrangements for the purposes of efficient portfolio management in accordance with the limits and conditions specified under the heading "Portfolio Investment Techniques" in Appendix 4 of the Prospectus.

The Fund may also invest in short-term, high quality money market instruments (including government securities, bank certificates of deposits or engage in overnight repurchase agreements) and/or money market funds for cash management purposes.

Temporary Investment Measures

The Fund may temporarily depart from the investment strategies set out above in response to the Investment Manager's perception of extraordinary market, political or similar conditions. During these periods, and for as long as and to the extent deemed necessary by the Investment Manager in the best interests of Shareholders, the Fund may increase its holdings of cash and ancillary liquid assets. In doing so, the Fund may succeed in avoiding losses, but may otherwise fail to achieve its investment objective.

Vanguard delivers a daily holdings file to Authorised Participants and market makers. This file ensures that Authorised Participants and market makers will be able to accurately predict the Fund's closing NAV, which ensures an effective arbitrage mechanism.
